THE HOG LAW.

Now that the city council is talking hog law, we believe it would be a good time to enact the ordinance, and the time for its taking effect could be fixed at any convenient time in the future.

What we want to see is this law enacted and ready to enforce. In this way we will have the law and everyone will know it, and will go ahead and dispose of their hogs, and there will be less complaint than if we wait until the last moment and enact the law and put it into effect all at once.

People are not likely to dispose of their hogs until the hog law is enacted; they will wait to see what is going to be done. Hogs are at a good price now and there is a ready sale for them.

Another serious problem is the great number of dead hogs the town has to bury. These city hog raisers have a way of disowning dead hogs in order to force the city to pay the expense of having them buried. Now, this is real nice—real nice. When people want to use the town for a hog pasture and then have the city marshal and the city clean up the dead ones, it is time to call a halt.

So far as we know, there is but one member of the city council who is expected to be against the hog law, which we regard as a natural consequence. We expect to publish the vote of the city council on this question, that the people may know just how it stands. Of course the people want the hog law.

OUR NEW LOCATION.

Last Friday and Saturday the Herald moved from the room over the postoffice in the city hall to the southwest room on the first floor, which is larger in every way and more convenient.

Several of the city officials turned out to assist in making this move, among them being Mayor John T. Buckley, Marshal L. C. Leller and Aldermen B. F. Allen and G. W. Dorris, and I, Kohn, by proxy.

Mayor Buckley proved a wheel-horse, and if he stays with his office with the same tenacity that he did our large press, there will be something doing. Harve Ferrell was late on the scene, but he made things move. Capt. Allen missed one chess game. Juge Gwin made himself scarce. Marshal Leller furnished two men, and they were good ones. Geo. Dorris was called away on urgent business. Arthur Allen spoiled his Sunday-go-to-meeting pants, while Punk Dunklin got weak in the legs, and Sam Foley had to go to take a dose of medicine.

We had fairly good luck, however, and thank each one for their assistance.

Come to see us in our new quarters. You are always welcome.

THE STOCK LAW.

And still the stock law is being put into effect all over Southeast Missouri, while poor old Hayti is just dragging along in the same old rut, devoting its streets and alleys to pasture for the public.

Benton is putting a stock law into effect and Bernie is prohibiting certain animals from running at large, while Blytheville is getting up a stock law ordinance, and a number of other towns put stock laws into effect this spring.

What other towns have done and are doing Hayti can do, if we will only try, and the sooner we try to keep up with the other towns around us the better it will be.

If we ever grow and prosper we will have to become active—we will have to get out of our old countrified, cross-roads style, and this will go mighty hard with some of our citizens. But they will have to become accustomed and educated to the new things.

We must never stand back on the kickers and complainers. When we know a thing is right we must do it. This is the surest way to stop kickers, they will not kick long when their kicking is not noticed.

COURTESY.

If you ever expect to get to the top, young man, you will have to travel the courtesy route, and all the way you will find it the most luxurious, the most pleasant and the most economical, because courtesy brings many rewards, and all the world pays homage at its feet.

Courtesy is not sloppy familiarity or fawning and groveling. Courtesy is at its best with quiet dignity and scrupulous self respect, which latter includes all the essence of courtesy. Courtesy in its purest form is nothing more nor less than due regard for others.

The greatest instances of discourtesy is perhaps met with by the traveling public about small railroad offices where young men get their first jobs. These young chaps with their hair parted in the middle feel a great importance over their first job, and some of them never get over it and consequently never get higher, but in every walk of life and in every position where you see young men go up, you may safely say that little acts of courtesy were the stepping stones.

HORSES RUNNING AT LARGE.

The city should pass an ordinance to prohibit horses, mules and colts from running at large in the city—that is, to prohibit the people who live in town from turning their stock out on the streets or commons.

Last Sunday we noticed quite a drove of horses and colts running and romping on the streets, and this is decidedly dangerous to children on the streets and to women who happen to be out driving. It is also dangerous where teams are standing hitched, and has caused many runaways and serious accidents.

No man's personal liberty should be allowed to infringe upon the rights of others. Some people only think and care for themselves. It is for this reason that laws must be made and enforced.

There are a lot of gossip boys and kids about this town who are about as much a nuisance to the public as they are to their parents. Their parents seem never to know or care anything about where or when these boys go, and if some of them are taught anything at home they do not show it. A few of these boys bother about the printing office, which is no place for idle boys or loafers of any kind. We are always glad for people to come to see us; you are always welcome and our door stands open, but we have no time for town loafers.
